PRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 13, 1858

THE LAST DEVIL'S WALK. BY CHARLES DICKEYS.

From his brimstone bed at break of day A devil has walking gone— To trample and char the flow'rs to death. To infest the air with his pestilent breath, And to cloud the morning sun.

And, pray, how was this devil dress'd? Oh! he was cased in an iron vest; His scales were close and his rivets true, With never a chink for a spear to get through.

And over the hill, and over the dale, He waiked, and over the plain, And an air-gun, elegant, polish'd, and round, That would kill miles off. with never a sound, He twirl'd like a harmless cane.

And over the laurels of full-blown Fame, And the tender shoots of the young Good Name, He stamp'd with his merciless hoot of shame, And he left its print on each, Itail. And backward and forward he wriggled his Through rose-trimm'd garden and lily-strewn

Marking his course by a loathsome trail, Like a snail track over a peach

He spied a laborer hard at work, Early at his vocation. His prominence offered a capital shot,
"Oho!" quoth the devil, "he sees me not."
So he shoulder'd his piece and he aim'd, God With terrible calculation!

He saw young innocent folks at play, Blameless, beautiful, wise, and gay, The prospect liked not him. So a vitriol-flask from his pouch he drew, ('Twas a devilish deed!) and the liquid threw Of monster's scarr'd and grim.

He peered in a house; 'twas a goodly manse, Of time and weather had stood the chance, And was still erect and fair. "Aha!" quoth the Devil, "the pile looks well, But I've fire-works studied for nothing in helt, If I can't find out when a match or shell

May lead to combustion there." VIII. That Devil could creep where no other fiends He found an unguarded spot, [can, Where he scraped a mine with his diligent froof,

And-his train prepared-wall, pillar, and Blew up in the air like shot!

That breach in the roof is mended now; Its whereabout few can tell, But the Devil had done his work that day, So he crawl'd him back for his master's pay, Which he royally spent in a jovial way, With the lowest devils in Hell.

"There are many devils that walk this world, Devils great and devils small, Devils with tails, and devils without; Devils who whisper, devils who shout, Devils who mystify, devils who teach; But the CALUMNY DEVIL- as hard to reach As the snail who, now sale on some distant

Is digesting the core of my favorite peach-Is the shabbiest devil of all!

SHAKES-peare on Fever and Ague. All the west's a chill. And all the men and women merely shakers. All have "their sick days" and their "well days; And one man in his time is often shaken, His chills having seven ages. At first he's "bil

Mewling and puking in his spouse's arms; And then the whining workman, somewhat ail-

With bile begilded face, creepeth like snail, Unwilling to work. And then his knees ache; Sighing like furnace, with a woful groaning, He seeks his quiet cottage. Then he tosseth Full of strange oaths and aching everywhere; His flesh doth creep, each hair becomes a quill; He seeks the bubble perspiration From his pocket pistol's mouth. And then he

His fair round belly, with a solid breakfast lined Feels very full—as though with ramrod packed. With leaden eyes and beard of bristling look, Full of fine hopes, and warning momently, A chill comes over him. The sixth age shifts Into the chattering magpie, with jaws all springs. His talk is all of cold and "clothes-more

He shakes himself, his bed, the room, the house; Moments seem hours-no sleep-no rest-no life:-

His manly voice, turning to treble, pipes and whistles shrill, And shakes withal in semi-quaver notes.

He's but chill'd iron, cold and still. Last scene of all. That ends this strange eventful history Headache surceeds the chill, and lever hot.

Corpse like he lies, Cares naught for north or south or east or WEST. The country's one to him, poor patriot, and his Resolves the thought that AGUE is its king. At last he sleeps. Quinine has done its work. The spell is broke. He rises from his bed A wiser and a weaker man. He s had a chill! Iowa, July 28, 1858. NOR WESTER.

In the Reform School of Chicago under the care of Rev. D. B. Nichole, very many have been reclaimed by trusting to their sense of honor, and by just that system of firmness and kindness of which we have been writing .-Out of upwards of two hundred trusted with various degrees of liberty, but seven have escaped. The Superintendent has a police formed from among the boys themselves, after enough of them have become attached to the principles of right and virtue, and through these the government of the rest is easily conducted. In education generally, very much the same process of reformation has been taking place as Mr. Rary recommends in breaking in his colts. Formerly, the most prominent idea of a school was that of a place where knowledge was driven into boys with cuffs and blows. The native love of knowledge, and the respect naturally paid to those believed to be wiser and better, were not be lieved in as real and operative principles of action. Now, with the best teachers, all other motives than these are held in reserve-kept in the back ground; force is seldom necessary to maintain authority, because the authority itself is a natural one, and therefore pleasant. HOWARD ASSOCIATION, PHILADEL PHIA.—A benevolent Institution, estab lished by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases .- To all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as SPERMATORRHŒA.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS, IMPOTENCE, &c. The Howard Association, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon as a charitable act, worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give Medical advice gratis, to all who apply by letter with a description of their condition, (age occupation, habits of life, &c.,) and in cases of extreme poverty, to furnish Medicines free of charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors, on a review of the past, feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause. Just published by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhaa, or Seminal Weakness, by the Consulting Surgeon, which will be sent by mail, (in a sealed letter envelope,) free of charge, on receipt of two stamps for postage. Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. GEO. R. CALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 south Ninth street, Philadel-
